Customer Reviews

There has always been so much controversy over whether a high protein diet is safe. The author makes some good points about the benefits of a high protein diet. For example, I found it interesting that for every one percent boost in daily protein intake, you can decrease calories by as much as thirty-two to fifty-two percent every day. The Mean Green Almond Bar and the Red Raw Superfood Bar will be two I will try.

If you know how many preservatives and other harmful ingredients are in protein and power bars, you know how valuable this book is. I'm a big fan of almond butter and coconut so I was thrilled to find some recipes that contained these ingredients. I'm going to try to contact the author to see if she will put out a paperback of this book. I'll be the first to buy it.

There are great recipes found in this book. I have never been one to eat protein bars but with all the material I have read here, I am certainly going to make them a part of my day. The improved energy and loss of fat make a high protein diet one to try.
