The Living End Of Cancer: One Woman's Faith-Based Journey Through Non-Hodgkin Lymphoma

Synopsis

In April of 2010, multi-published, award-winning author Carla Rossi felt the best she ever had. That all changed with one routine doctor visit. Tossed into diagnostic tests, surgery, chemotherapy, procedures, and targeted drug therapy, Carla gives us a transparent glimpse into what the journey was really like – “good and bad. With friends and family at her side, Carla takes us through the ups and downs of her non-Hodgkin lymphoma cancer battle with practical and scriptural faith, humor, and her own understanding of the medications that helped save her life.

It's hard to believe how someone's pain, suffering, and fear can be so inspiring. Carla Rossi has captured the essence of "God uses all things for good." She reveals the ugly side of cancer while beautifully spotlighting God's miraculous splendor. The honesty is gripping. Praise God!!!

In the prime of life, the last thing Carla expected from her check-up was a cancer diagnosis! She didn't have time for this. She had books to finish; Sunday's music service to plan; her first grandchild on the way. The treatments are brutal, recovery messy, and each subsequent chemo worse than the one before. But Carla is a Christian, strong in her faith and paired with a husband of equal conviction. In addition, John is one of those rare men who truly seems to understand his wife. They are the most amazing couple I know. Whether your life has ever been touched by cancer or not, her story of hope and faith, of leaning on others in her weakest moments will surely bless you. Don't miss this opportunity to share in her victory.

I've never had cancer. (Knock on wood.) But I have been a fan of this author's fiction for a while so when an opportunity came up to read this, I agreed. I am SO glad I did. SO SO GLAD. The journal style entries were at times heartfelt and poignant, other times frustrated and angry, but always honest. I found myself relating to so many of the questions and struggles Carla shares in her journey, and for such a short book, it really packed a deep thought and reflective punch. I read it in three hours in which I laughed so hard I cried, just cried, and as messed up as this is going to sound, enjoyed this book. It is not a self-help book, it is not a how-to book, it is exactly what the title says, and whether you have cancer, have had cancer, or are close to someone who does, or like me none of the above, you'll want to keep this one handy should that ever change.

This book exemplifies what it means to have a faith based experience with a devastating diagnosis (or any of life's problems). For those who have strong faith it is a testimony. For those looking, it teaches what it means to have the peace that comes from a relationship with God and how through him what is unbearable can be bearable. With the scripture to back it :-) this is an exceptional book and a must read for anyone who has ever faced the "c" word, or loved someone with the "c" word, or the healthcare providers caring for those experiencing this situation. I loved it and read it in one sitting.

I, too, have this disease and although I have just started treatment I feel as you did. I will be healed, my faith is strong. I appreciate your book. It helps to know what to expect. I know everyone is different but it still helps! May you continue to be blessed. June
